ABOUT ME

As a highly motivated individual with a passion for technology and innovation, I am always eager to learn, discover new things, and improve my skills.

In addition to my love of technology, I am also an avid gamer with a passion for playing and creating video games. I have even participated in a 24-hour hackathon where I created a game using Unity C#. This experience allowed me to further develop my skills in game design and programming.

Currently I'm looking for a part time job or a summer internship to get into the professional life and further my expertise.
